Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Every family without exception should keep this preparation at hand during the hot weather of the summer months. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is worth many times its cost when needed and is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. It has no superior for the purposes for which it is intended. Buy it now. Obtainable everywhere.

J. L. Carter left Friday morning for Kansas City where he met his sister, Mrs. W. O. Hulsey of Oklahoma City, from there they left for Helena, Montana, for a visit with their aunt, Mrs. P. B. Bartley.

Taking Big Chances.

It is a great risk to travel without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as this preparation cannot be obtained on the trains or steamships. Attacks of bowel complaint are often sudden and very severe, and everyone should go prepared for them. Obtainable everywhere.

Rev. T. M. Cobb returned Friday from a visit at the Confederate Home in Higginsville. Mrs. Walter Reeder and two children of Tampa, Florida, arrived Friday for a visit here with relatives.

Constipation and Indigestion.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets and must say they are the best I have ever used for constipation and indigestion. My wife also used them for indigestion and they did her good," writes Eugene S. Knight, Wilmington, N. C. Chamberlain's Tablets are mild and gentle in their action. Give them a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the agreeable laxative effect which they produce. Obtainable everywhere.

Miss Helen Frazer returned Friday from a months' visit in Kentucky and other Eastern points.

Biliousness and Stomach Trouble.

"Two years ago I suffered from frequent attacks of stomach trouble and biliousness," writes Miss Emma Verbryke, Lima, Ohio. "I could eat very little food that agreed with me and I became so dizzy and sick at my stomach to keep from falling. Seeing Chamberlain's Tablets advertised I decided to try them. I improved rapidly." Obtainable everywhere.

Misses Francine Nantie, Louise Mavel and Marguerite Rosewall, went to Kansas City Sunday evening for a visit.

VALUE OF BEES ON THE FARM

Apiary at University of Missouri Shows Increase.

"Do bees ever really store enough surplus honey to pay for their keep," is a question which prospective and discouraged beekeepers often ask. The records of the apiary of the department of entomology of the University of Missouri for the present season help to answer this question.

The department apiary this spring consisted of eight spring stands, five of which were three and five banded Italians, two the leather colored Italians, and one black bees taken from bee-tree in 1915. Of these eight original spring stands, three were in eight framed dove-tailed hives, one a glass or observation hive. Since spring these eight stands have given off by natural and artificial swarming, thirteen additional stands. All these are developing into strong stands, some having already stored considerable surplus. The apiary has also been used by the students in the class in bee-keeping for practical apiary experience.

Since the middle of June the stands have been so prosperous that they have insisted on building queen cells and threatening to swarm. June 22 and 24 the honey extractor was cleaned up and a part of the surplus honey extracted and the empty combs returned to the stands. Two hundred pounds of fine white clover honey were removed and all frames which had uncapped cells were returned to be refilled. At least one hundred more pounds of surplus honey was almost ready to be extracted.

By fall the value of the apiary, counting only the bees, will have increased at least 150 per cent. The surplus honey will be worth from 100 to 200 per cent of the original value of the spring stands, besides the value to the adjoining orchard in the pollenization of fruit, which has been worth far more than the value of the surplus honey and the increase in value of the apiary.

Rolla Wins Suit.

The supreme court of Missouri has issued an absolute writ of mandamus against the curators of the University of Missouri compelling them to establish a duplicate school of engineering at Rolla School of Mines.

This suit is the test case filed by Rolla people to test the validity of the Buford bill passed by the legislature compelling the university to establish a duplicate school of engineering at Rolla School of Mines.

The suit is one brought in the name of a student, who, for the purposes of the suit at least, desired to enter courses in engineering called for by the law passed by the legislature but not then established by curators. Frank Farris and other Rolla residents and friends of the School of Mines, in the hope of increasing the enrollment at that school, got a bill through the legislature providing for the establishment of courses there which are already given here at the School of Engineering. The bill gave the power of granting new degrees to Rolla.

The bill was ignored by the University on the ground that such measures should originate with the curators, who are entrusted with the management of the university by the state constitution. Rolla brought the test case, with the above result.

Boys Keep Neater Rooms Than Girls.

"Boys keep their rooms cleaner and nicer than girls do," said Mrs. Gussie Smith, a student's boarding and rooming-house keeper at the University of Missouri, when she awarded a $5 gold piece to her neatest roomer. At the beginning of the school year, Mrs. Smith announced to her roomers that she would give a prize to the student who kept his room the neatest during the school term.

"I have had girl roomers," said Mrs. Smith, "but these prize winning boys can beat them any time when it comes to keeping a room clean. The girls depend upon someone else to keep their rooms clean."
